

Bathroom Reader

Volume 6, Issue 5

November 1-15, 2006

Where do You Fit?

The Pew Research Center for the People and the Press has devised a short test (25 questions) to see where you fit in the political arena. Are you a Democrat, Republican, or Independent on the issues? The test is called "Beyond Red vs. Blue" and the test is available online at <http://typology.people-press.org>.

Kinko's Generation

An estimated 30 million Americans or 1/5 of the workforce are part of the so-called Kinko's Generation, employees who spend significant hours each month working outside a traditional office.

USA Today Oct. 4, 2006

NEW BOOKS in the Library

Looking for a topic for your paper? Try the NEW BOOKS shelf in the library. Some new titles are:

One Bullet Away: the Making of a Marine Officer

Lots of Parking: Land Use in a Car Culture

We Own this Game: A Season in the Adult World of Youth Football

Miranda: The Story of America's Right to Remain Silent

Hunger; An Unnatural History

A Will of Their Own: Cross-Cultural Perspectives on Working Children

The Illusion of Public Opinion

Veteran's Day, November 11, was made a national holiday in 1938. Originally the day was known as Armistice Day.

Native American Heritage Month

Log on to www.nativeweb.org for information and resources on indigenous cultures around the world. Another web site of value is www.americanindians.com.

Looking for images? See the National Museum of the American Indian. This museum is part of the Smithsonian Institution in Washington DC. at www.nmai.si.edu.

NOVEMBER 7, 2006

Election Day in Wisconsin

Have you registered to vote? You may register at the polling place if you have identification. This is an important election for State and Federal representation. If you don't vote, you have no right to complain!

And we all want to reserve the right to complain!